Dear Esha,

Congratulations for earning the 2025 Climate Education Award for raising awareness of the vital importance of environmental stewardship and regenerative agriculture through your medium of photography and more recently videography.

Through your creativity and by featuring true stories of families safeguarding the soil, and now the forests, you are inspiring a sense of place, engendering a collective caring for the land and developing a feeling of possibility that we can not only be resilient, but we can also rise to the challenge of healing our relationship with nature. Esha, in developing your work of art and creating Good Earth Media, as well as all your other platforms, you have more than earned your feature in National Geographic, and you have more than earned this Climate Education Award.

Keep up your excellent work and know that we at the Climate Change Leadership Institute are enduring allies in your journey.

With gratitude,

Robb Hirsch
